

Exercise 3: I can write my numbers

Description

"I can write my numbers" is an exercise designed for teaching handwriting numbers in the context of dates, addresses, telephone numbers, etc. Its objective is to adapt to the child's progression with automatic correction pathways if they are having difficulties.

Exercise Advantages

- Numbers are selected by the teacher
- Automatic correction pathways for each student to perfect and correct difficulties perceived
- Personalized writing models selected by the teacher
- Stroke analysis for each student (form, order, direction, precision, etc.) depending on the model selected by the teacher

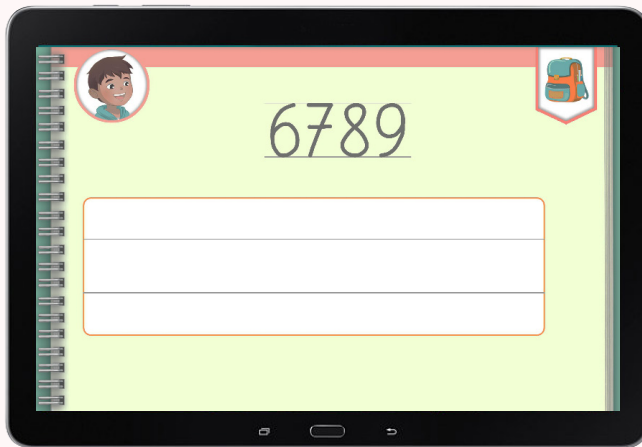

Exercise 3: I can write my numbers

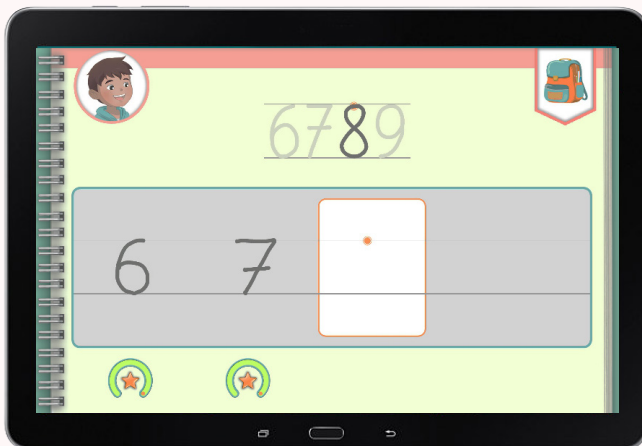

The child's first attempt

- Write the number(s)
- Instruction: Static model
- No analysis

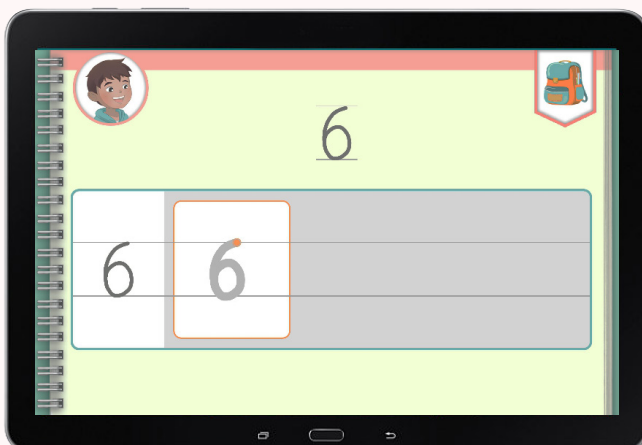

Learn the number's strokes

- Write each number, one by one
- Instruction: interactive model
- Stroke analysis

Automatic revision and correction

- Rewrite the numbers with mistakes
- Interactive model on the side
- An outline to trace for additional help
- Stroke analysis